FACTS ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY

LOCATION

Gainesville, Florida, The University City, is located in the north-central section of the State, about equidistant—70 miles—from the Atlantic Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico. It is 70 miles southwest of Jacksonville, 120 miles northwest of Orlando, and 150 miles southeast of Tallahassee, capital of Florida. A modern town of 26,500 population, Gainesville is among the South's most rapidly growing cities.

HISTORICAL STATEMENT

In 1853 the Foundation work of the present University of Florida was laid in Ocala when a small private school, East Florida Independent Institute, was opened. Florida Agricultural College was established at Lake City in 1883, and by 1905 six colleges were at least in part state supported. With the passage of the Buckman Act in 1905, the University of Florida was established in its present Gainesville location. Its destiny has been guided since that time by four presidents: Dr. Andrew Sledd (1905-09), Dr. Albert A. Murphree (1909-28), Dr. John J. Tigert (1928-47), and Dr. J. Hillis Miller (1947——).

ENROLLMENT

The total enrollment at the University of Florida for the regular 1950-51 term was 10,500. Estimated enrollment for the 1951-52 school year is placed in excess of 9,500 students, including about 2,600 women.

COLLEGES

Among the units which make up the University of Florida are 10 colleges, 3 schools and numerous divisions and departments. The University's 10 colleges include: University, Agriculture, Architecture and Allied Arts, Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Education, Engineering, Law, Pharmacy, Physical Education, Health, and Athletics. Schools include: Forestry, Graduate, and Journalism.

Added in 1949 was the Cancer Research Laboratory. Of special importance in the national emergency is the Department of Military Science and Tactics which serves both the Army and Air Force. Other units include: Division of Music, Agricultural Experiment Station, Engineering Experiment Station, Agricultural Extension Service, General Extension Division and the Division of Libraries.

PHYSICAL PLANT

The University's permanent physical plant has been greatly expanded during the past few years. Buildings recently completed include the Classroom-Administration Building, the Gymnasium Auditorium, two units of the Engineering and Industries Building, the Student Service Center, seven dormitories, additions to the Law Building, Chemistry-Pharmacy Building, Cafeteria, Infirmary, Hydraulics Laboratory, Library, Heating Plant and Stadium, along with many other changes and additions to existing buildings.

Currently scheduled for construction are an R.O.T.C. Classroom Building, a classroom and laboratory for study and research in poultry diseases, and a meats laboratory. Under construction and scheduled for completion in the Fall is the complete rehabilitation of Science Hall.

GEORGE ROBERT (BOB) WOODRUFF

Director of Athletics

George Robert Woodruff, one of the nation's youngest major athletic directors and head coaches at 35 years of age, enters his second season as ringmaster of the Gators.

He was born at Athens, Georgia, on March 14, 1916. The family soon moved to Savannah where he played three years of high school football before entering the University of Tennessee. During the seasons of 1936-37-38, Woodruff was a standout tackle on the teams of General Bob Neyland which turned in a 23-5-3 record.

Bob Woodruff

Immediately after receiving a degree in engineering from the University of Tennessee in 1939, Woodruff joined the Volunteer staff as assistant coach and was with Tennessee in that capacity when the teams of 1939 and 1940 dropped decisions to Southern California and Boston College in the Rose Bowl and Sugar Bowl games respectively.

Coach Woodruff entered the Army in 1941 and rose to the rank of Major in the Army Engineers with 4 years service before receiving his discharge in 1946.

For the football seasons of 1944 and 1945 he was assistant coach at West Point. Both of those seasons the Black Knights of the Hudson, manipulated by Coach Earl (Red) Blaik, thundered to national collegiate gridiron championships.

The next season, 1946, Woodruff returned South to join the Georgia Tech staff as line coach. That year Tech turned in a 9-2 record, including a 41-19 victory over Tulsa in the Oil Bowl.

In the Spring of 1947 Woodruff answered a call to Baylor University as head coach of the Southwest Conference Bears that had floundered in the league's cellar the year before with only one victory in nine starts.

The rough and ready Southwest had its eyes popped open early in the 1947 season when Baylor ripped its way to four straight victories—one a startling upset of Arkansas—before Texas halted the surge of the Bears. Baylor won five and lost five that year.

Came 1948 and a still more improved Bear eleven. They fought their way to a regular season record of five wins, three losses and two ties. Then on January 1st Baylor added another scalp by clipping Wake Forest 20 to 7 in the Delta Bowl game.

Last year Baylor made the going still harder for the giants of the Southwest and went down to the wire as the challenger to Rice for the Southwest Conference championship. The Owls had to come from behind for a 21 to 7 title win. Woodruff's record for his final year at Baylor was eight wins and two losses.

The auburn-haired, easy-going native Georgian faced very much the same reconstruction problem in Gainesville that greeted him in Waco three years ago when he took the step up into the head coaching ranks.

This past fall he opened eyes in Southeastern circles just as he had in the Southwest by taking an inexperienced Florida football squad, packed with sophomores, and whipped it into an aggressive, fighting outfit that broke even on a tough ten-game schedule.

Coach and Mrs. Woodruff (Margaret) have a seven year old son, Scooter.
